Chapter 10. An Act to amend the Mines Act. By section 2 of this statute it is provided that no person, firm, syndicate or company conducting a mining business of any sort or kind in the province shall use the word bureamn to describe the name or title under which such business is carried on. This section is subject to two objections - (1) That it is a regulation of trade and commerce, and such regulations can only be competently made by the parliament of Canada, and (2) Parliament having authority to incorporate companies where their objects are not merely provincial, must have the right to assign to the company such name as it sees fit. The undersigned apprehends that a provincial legislature cannot limit parliament in the choice of a name, and that without infringing upon the authority of parliament in the regulation of trade and commerce, a provincial legislature can not deny to a company incorporated and tunned by parliament, the...
